Manny denies Krista affair, offers apology

By Bayani San Diego Jr.

RONALD A. DENIAL FROM THE POUND: He would like to know.
After weeks of speculation, leading from Manny Pacquiao's surprisingly denied his alleged affair with actress Krista Rana. He also apologized to Krista's family for the injuries caused by their purported non-relationship.
In an interview aired on GMA 7 on Sunday night and in the news program "24 Oras" yesterday, Pacquiao said in Filipino: "We're just good friends. I didn't mean to hurt her."

Climate change worsens far faster than predicted

WASHINGTON—SINCE THE 1997 international accord to fight global warming, climate change has worsened and accelerated—beyond some of the grimness of warnings made back then.

As the world has called for a stern warning about what is to do next, new data suggests, especially through the more frequent natural sea ice in the Arctic. In

Maguindanao is where as many as 34 people, including journalists, have been abducted and are feared killed in the course of a long-running political feud. 13 journalists feared dead in massacre

THE FIRST POLITICAL MASS murder of the election season was described as so gruesome and unparalleled in recent years that an aide of President Macapagal-Arroyo said it required nothing less than the declaration of a state of emergency to avoid more bloodletting.

At least 21 people, including 13 women, lay dead—some of them beheaded and others raped and mutilated, authorities said.

A search was mounted for several dozen others reportedly taken hostage and feared killed in Maguindanao province.

Media groups demand justice for colleagues

PHILIPPINE PRESS ORGANIZATIONS demanded justice after reports were among 21 people massacred yesterday in what could probably be the largest group of journalists killed in one single incident.

Local authorities said at least 13 media people were killed in the massacre in Maguindanao.

"It is incumbent on government to give swift justice to the victims. This is a direct challenge to our efforts to strengthen democracy in this country,"

Bicol film on hunger draws 12M hits

By Juan Escudero Jr., Davao Star/News Leader

NAGA CITY—DRAWING MORE THAN 12 million viewers as of Saturday, a short film about hunger drew hits by a Bicolano filmmaker has pricked the conscience of people around the world, who said it made them cry.

"Chicken a la Carte" by Ferdinand Dandara, shot in 2009, best score 3,000 entries when it won the 36th Berlin Film Festival award for short films in 2006. In his commentary has drawn viewers to the website www.chickenalacarte.com and YouTube.

The film is "about hunger and poverty brought about by globalization," the synopsis says.

"There are 10,000 people dying every day due to hunger and malnutrition. This short film shows a forgotten portion of society... What is inspiring is the hope and optimism that never left this people."

Kapatiran's JC files CoC for presidency

By Philip C. Tabora and Davao Z. Pascualigan

THE FIRST OF A NUMBER OF "BECOME" applicants to the presidency has formally declared his intention to seek the No. 1 post with the blessings of Catholic bishops.

Ang Kapatiran, standard-bearer John Carlos "JC" de los Reyes, Jr., his running mate Donatado Chapco Jr., and the party's seven senatorial candidates filed their certificate of candidacy (CoC) yesterday afternoon at the main office of the Commission on Elections (Comelec) in Marikina, Manila.

"The Filipinos people are fed up with traditional politics and we're the only game in town where it comes to alternative politics. We have a good chance of winning," De los Reyes, who turns 40 on Feb. 14, told reporters.

He echoed Manila Archbishop Gaudencio Cardinal Rosales' lament that even if the May 2010 elections were fully automated, the Philippine political system would remain rotten if Filipinos

Peñaflorida's int'l triumph indictment of RP failure

THE INTERNATIONAL ACCLAIM achieved by Eleni Peñaflorida, who was named GNN Hero of the Year for his "pushcart classroom" in the Philippines, is an indictment of the government's failure to provide basic education to the poor, several lawmakers and a teacher's group said yesterday.

But the accolade is trying to make up for any shortcomings by showcasing that it would center on Peñaflorida one of the Philippine government's highest honors given to a civilian.

The Palen is also preparing a book welcome for Peñaflorida.

Nueva Santa Rita, Eleni's home town, said the international recognition given to Peñaflorida's work underscored the "very state of education in the country."

"To say look, Eleni is the true hero and worthy of recognition by all. I believe he is better than Duterte (Manny Pacquiao) because he does not need to break a face just to be a hero," Jose said.

Bayani Mansa Rep. Santa Domingo said he would not be surprised "if Governor

Oil firms up prices by P1.50

SMALL OIL FIRMS UPPRICES BY P1.50

Philippines and Total P&L have raised the prices of gasoline, diesel and kerosene by P1.50 a liter effective today.

Total, Indonesia said it was raising its P1 the cheapest in price public utility vehicles on its existing vehicles on-site.

According to Piyang V spokesman Roy Ong, the price adjustment was aimed the annual increase of increase to make up for losses incurred during the new government under No. 829 was in effect.

EO 809 from last January took Oct. 15 levels in Luzon, which was placed under a state of calamity because of the damage wrought by tropical storms "Gusty" and "Goring." The price rise was filed on Monday last week.

Oil industry executives said the amount they had to increase used as P1.50 a liter.

Two days after the EO was filed, oil companies raised prices of diesel by P1.20 a liter, gasoline by P1.20 to P1.50 a liter, and kerosene by P1.50 a liter.

Manuel, appearing as an amicus curiae (friend of the court) at Manila Regional Trial Court Branch 26, also criticized severely revised Socioeconomic Planning Secretary Ralph Romo for protesting to the public that he had gasoline was overpriced to P1.50 a liter.

Manuel, an economist professor at the University of the Philippines, had reportedly volunteered testimony.

He said the Oil Regulation Law prevented the big oil companies—Chesapeake Philippines Inc. (formerly Colpet), Philippine Shell Petroleum Corp., and Petron Corp.—from monopolizing or cartelizing the industry.

"Because if there was a cartel, it does not mean it has succeeded in overpricing and monopolizing profits," said Manuel.

In a statement the read before the court, Manuel stated theoretical and empirical basis for his observations.

The theoretical basis, the said, is that the oil industry is a contestable market. He explained that in a perfectly contestable market, companies that overcharge would be threatened with replacement by new industry entrants.

Only competition operating at the lowest possible cost can survive in a contestable market, the said.

"In fact, when in a perfectly contestable market will be forced to operate as efficiently as possible and to charge prices as low as long-run financial survival permits,"

Manuel said.

November 2007

RONALD EMMETT L. ATKINSON

Secretary
Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR)

Copyright © 2004 John Wiley & Sons, Ltd.

was with great joy that we ended a meeting last Wednesday, November 28, 2009, when, after finding out that the Environmental Compliance Certificate (CCC) for the mining company, Intero Resources, in Mindoro was acquired with great irregularity – that it was given without the required genuine consultations and endorsements of the affected local government units, as demanded by the mayors of the two directly affected towns and the governor and congressmen of the two provinces of Mindoro – you promised to support the ICC. We admired then your sense of justice and your commitment to stand by the truth. At the hunger strike and their supporters' happy celebration a thanksgiving mass outside the ICCM compound, that also, the rejecting was short-lived when your order came out a couple of hours later? It was just a mere 10-15 day suspension order. Your letter did not reflect accurately the discussions and agreements of the meeting, among which (i) the recognition of the ICC's worrisome aim; (ii) the failure of the Intero Resources to conduct genuine consultations in the affected communities; (iii) the steadfast refusal of ICCM to allow the entry of the Intero Resources in the area; and (iv) the sustained rejection and withholding of consent of the legitimate indigenous people to be affected by the mining operation.

We all felt betrayed. If the ECC was acquired with irregularity, why should it be just suspended for 90 days? It is not illegal, and being so, must be involved? Other thoughts then came to my mind. In the said dialogue, in front of two provincial governors, several mayors, congressmen, priests, two bishops, ODM officials and several Maipaan leaders, you were emphatic about your allegiance to the law and your assurance to punish anyone in your office who does not abide by the law. In your contentious joy at your declaration of withdrawal of the ECC, we were not able to follow up the name of the person who recommended to use this issuance without the proper procedure. Who had been at fault in issuing the ECC? Is anyone accountable for it?

We also discussed about the area covered being a watershed. You were once again emphatic that no mining company will ever be allowed to operate in a watershed area. Despite DENR's failure to formally declare part of the contested location a watershed, all of the representatives from Mindoro present in the dialogue confirmed that some 13,000 hectares covered by the ECC definitely include a watershed essential for food production and as source of potable water for the two Mindoro provinces.

The fact that the area is a waterhead has long been established and explains why former DEMR Secretary Alvarez cancelled the company's mining permit in July 2003. Even the technical descriptions of the place bear this out. Why then was the GCE merely suspended, and not cancelled as legal demands? Will a more sophisticated order correct this mistake?

Two note that the mining concession is not only a affront to the official watershed of the island, but the area also overlaps with the ancestral domains of the indigenous peoples – Mangen and Tadjawan Mangyan, whose leaders and representatives are continuously leading the hunger strike in front of your SENM office. They categorically declare that a genuine Free, Prior and Informed Consent (FPIC) was never granted and that the news has been resorted to deception and indirect bribery to get a pseudo support from a number of indigenous leaders.

I do not know what manner of advice you received to vote for suspension. But it is not too late to correct the error – and save! The 25 hunger strikers, most of them Mangroves, are now on the 11th day of their hunger strike. Don't you care at all for their situation? Is this not part of your job as a senator? We hear that in a matter of days you will submit your resignation to join the 2010 elections. Is the idea a tactic to wash your hands from your responsibility? You caused the defective ECC; have the courage to resolve it! Allow me to remind you that your responsibility is more towards the care of the Philippine environment and the Filipinos who mostly depend on a well-balanced ecosystem than towards foreign investors who are here not to help our country – in spite of all their pretensions – but to exploit us and our natural resources. If you would have to make a mistake, better are defending the lives of the Filipino people, than are defending money and foreigners! Better to lose your face in front of foreigners than to lose it in front of your constituents and country!

Minkelo, blessed by God with rich natural resources, is a food basket of the southern Taping province, including Miao Manlu. Thousands of small farmers depend on the rivers flowing from the mountains for their irrigation. All these would be lost due to mining operation. It is because of this delicate balance of nature on the island that the provinces of Oriental and Occidental Minkelo and the Municipality of Sallayan, where the mining site is located, have issued a moratorium of mining for 25 years.

is our dialogue, you have repeatedly challenged the local officials of the plant to stand their ground not to allow mining operations in the two provinces. And indeed, they have stood their ground! They have bowed the moratorium. But who is this not being respected by your national office? The ECC you issued is for mining. The provinces have clearly stated that they do not want mining. Why have you even entertained the application for its issuance, and much more, issued it?

You have always insisted on the observance of the law. But the way you disregarded the decision of the local government units in Mindoro is a gross violation of Section 76 of the Mining Act of 1995, which clearly requires the conduct of a genuine consultation, approval and endorsement through ordinance from the affected municipalities and the provincial government.

Moreover, the basis for issuing the ECC is utterly flawed since you also disregarded the decision of the independent scientists who conducted the Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA). The EIA Review Committee for the Miraflores Nickel Project voted on September 23, 2009 to recommend the denial of the ECC. However, on October 14, 2009, you unilaterally reversed the experts' decision and issued the ECC, thereby endangering the environmental safety of the island province.

I appeal to you, Mr. Secretary, to revoke the EEC. Do not blame the people for going into hunger strike. They would not have done it if the EEC was not issued in the first place. They want to have their voices heard, and now, many people even out of Mindoro – bishops, priests, religious, teachers, students, parishioners and many NGO supporters are hearing it. Now is the chance for you to prove your pro-life stand and the respect you held out for the primary of local government. (Otherwise, please do not campaign on pro-life issues in the coming election and do not claim that you are for the good of the local government in which you would be serving.)

*If you close your ear to the cry of the poor, you will cry out and not be heard." Proverbs 21:13

I pray that you would have courage, humility and compassion.

Since winning countless local and international recognition for its centerpiece Clean and Green/Bantay Puerto Campaign way back in 1992, the City Government of Puerto Princesa has continued to pioneer local government efforts to protect and conserve the environment, working with communities and various stakeholders on the ground, initiating strategic projects on a wide range of concerns ranging from waste management, addressing climate change through law enforcement and awareness campaigns, promotion of sustainable ecotourism models and most recently, spearheading an internet campaign that catapulted the now world famous Puerto Princesa Subterranean River National Park as a leading candidate in the search for the New 7 Wonders of the World. Mayor Edward S. Hagedorn firmly believes that the environmental condition of the world demands concrete action, not just words. The City administration has thus begun to transform Puerto Princesa into the country's first carbon-negative city, by overhauling its public transport system using renewable energy in lieu of the fossil-fueled generators, and making the city's 66 barangays zero-waste compliant in time for next year's Earth Day celebration.

We walk the talk

Under the leadership of Mayor Edward S. Hagedorn, Puerto Princesa City established the country's first modern sanitary landfill controlled and operated by a local government unit.

The Puerto Princesa Subterranean River National Park, visited recently by candidates to the 1000 Mile Earth Competition, has been effectively conserved by the City Government of Puerto Princesa and is one of the country's top nature attractions and a finalist candidate in the ongoing web-based search for the New 7 Wonders of the World.

Mayor Edward Hagedorn has spearheaded a pioneering campaign to address the challenge of climate change, through the organization of the Global Legal Action for Climate Change that undertakes enforcement and legal action, scientific research, education and advocacy.

As part of the City administration's drive to attain zero carbon emission, Mayor Edward S. Hagedorn has embarked on an ambitious drive to introduce the e-bus and e-trike as the City's main mode of public transport.

Dolphin and whale shark watching tours at Puerto Princesa Bay, a model in community-based ecotourism.

"The environment is not about the birds and the bees, but about life..."

—Edgardo Lopez, 1000 Mile Earth Competition Winner and Puerto Princesa City government official.

The City government is proud to host the 10th International Conference on Zero Waste, a global gathering of environmental advocates and action.

'Impossible offense'

WE DON'T KNOW IF IT'S A PRODUCT OF THE cleverness of politicians or the stupidity of lawmakers. But with the start of the period for the filing of the certificates of candidacy (FECs) in the May 2013 election last Nov. 20, the last, so premature consideration has become more acute.

EDITORIAL The problem of the press, particularly print ads, in influencing elections is, of course, a longstanding one. The influence of the press on elections is a complex issue, involving the influence of the press on the public, the influence of the press on the candidates, and the influence of the press on the voters. The press has a long history of influencing elections, and it is likely to continue to do so in the future. The press has a powerful voice, and it is important to understand its role in the electoral process. The press can inform the public, but it can also mislead. The press can hold candidates accountable, but it can also distort the truth. The press can influence the outcome of an election, but it can also be influenced. The press is a powerful force, and it is important to understand its role in the electoral process.

For Congress, officials say only candidates can claim this office because RA 861, Sec. 79(a) defines a candidate as "any person... who has filed a certificate of candidacy." In other words, one may do what Sec. 82 prohibits, which is to present his candidacy outside the campaign period (for next year's elections, from Feb. 10, 2010 to May 8, 2010 for presidential, vice presidential and senatorial races; and from March 26, 2010 to May 6, 2010 for congressional and local races), but once he officially becomes a candidate, he cannot do it anymore until the campaign period begins.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has been investigating the case on perjury charges concerning by a very close 7-6 majority vote, only added to the debate in mid-July of resolving the question. One view holds that perjury charges are now an "untenable offense" because of an amendment to RA 8032 in RA 9009, which says a person who files his certificate of candidacy "shall only be considered a candidate at the start of the campaign period." Election lawyer Manuel Macalindag says the Commission cannot apply the Perjury decision yet because there is a motion for reconsideration and it is not yet final and executed.

In fact, the Harris case is a landmark decision that has raised a lot of eyebrows. Given that two more justices are going to retire soon, some legal experts like the constitutionalist Ft. Joaquín Berroa, 51, doubt if the decision would hold for long.

Congress Chair Jose Serrano has admitted that Congress officials might find it hard to pin down candidates for premature campaigning. When it comes to premature campaigning, he said, the rule of thumb is, if there is no indication to vote, there is no condition.

For the last, prominent campaigning was adopted hesitantly to curb excessive campaign spending and, in the words of the Supreme Court, "to level the playing field between the popular or rich candidates, on one hand, and the lesser-known or poorer candidates, on the other." Instead the limited campaign period benefits the popular because it gives the lesser-known hardly enough time to introduce themselves to the public and sell their platform. This explains the success shown by people as much as political dynasties enjoy in political elections. And the limited period of campaigning is not a good idea for a democratic state, since the people will not vote before the campaign period started. See, Wahl gives the managed and those in power, with their vast resources, a window to attract and maintain the focus of Sec. 30.

From Mide's statements it looks as if the Congress finds smoking, Sec. 58 an almost impossible task. Thus, people cannot expect even a brief relief from the syndrome that assails them whenever they may be, whether at home watching TV or in streets draped with posters and tapasolines of politicians. Congress might as well just stay this particular provision of the election law, and time up with new legislation outlawing the visual pollution.

It is now clear to us. President Estrada's ouster was less a product of popular uprising than of the machinations of irresponsible elites and of hypocritical moralists. On the other hand, the May 1 EDSA 3 Malacanang siege is the poor's indictment of a social and moral order bereft of any sustained concern for the marginalized. Now, many involved in EDSA 2 and the forced impeachment and aborted Senate hearings that preceded it have either apologized to President Estrada or have sought audience with him cognizant of his place in Philippine politics. And with this, Estrada's core personality comes to the fore. In his words, he has forgiven those who have wronged and accused him.

We believe in President Estrada's brand of leadership. Despite the many accusations against him, note that not one of his Cabinet members was ever entangled in charges despite the witch hunting of his accusers. President Estrada chose his appointees well. His former Cabinet members have much respect for him. They have stories to tell of how the former president would exact output and performance from them without breathing down their necks. He trusted them because he knew he had the best people to run the government. To date, he speaks highly of them, and them of him.

We submit that President Estrada is NOT GUILTY of the crimes attributed to him. He is untily being portrayed as a convicted glunder. His sentence, however, came from a kangaroo court that had no choice but to pronounce him guilty lest the Gloria Macapagal Arroyo presidency is exposed as a sham. President Erap is guilty only of standing by the masses of our people against the dictates of the elite. Hence, WE BELIEVE PRESIDENT JOSEPH EJERCITO ESTRADA IS THE BEST PERSON FOR THE JOB given:

- His vast experience in public service. He has over 30 years of public service experience from being Mayor (17 years), Senator (5 years), Vice President (5 years) and President (2.5 years). His record of service is highlighted by various recognitions including the Ten Outstanding Young Men (TOYM) in Public Administration award in 1972. Most interestingly, he is the only candidate with experience in the Presidency.
- His wisdom and maturity. With him comes the clear perspective of age and experience. Even at 70, he is still vigorous to be at the helm just as Ronald Reagan was when he first became President of the US at age 69 years and 349 days. More importantly, President Estrada's unjust incarceration has made him far learned than any of those posing as candidates today. His profound insights from his rise and fall in government have only sharpened his forgiving nature. In his meditations in the over 5 years that he was prisoner of the Arroyo regime, he has further honed his views as a person and a public servant.
- His solid political base, the people's support. Always among the top bets in Presidential elections surveys, he has consistently enjoyed high satisfaction and trust ratings despite the accusations and conviction. His endorsements of successful senatorial bids of the opposition last 2007 senatorial elections, his 2008 winning margin over Mr. Jose De Venecia, and his phenomenal crowd drawing ability as shown in his Lakbay Pensiwanat visits all suggest that he has the unflinching support of many our people especially at the grassroots.
- His strong political will to resist foreign influence and interest group pressures. From his staunch stand in 1991 on the US Bases issue, his refusal to commit the government to any sovereign guarantees in dealings with the private sector, to his consistent and unabashed promotion of a reproductive health policy, we glean the characteristic steadfastness of a man with genuine concern for change.

Garnett lifts Celtics past Knicks in OT

Buzzer-beater hands Boston 10th victory

By Francis T. Ochoa

NEW YORK—WITH ONE PLAY LEFT TO win a second overtime, Boston coach Doc Rivers had everything figured out and down up. But Paul Pierce, the team's only player to have scored in overtime, had another idea.

He wanted to go with Kevin Garnett, who had scored double-digits in all four games. Rivers agreed with a jump ball from the top of the key that beat the Red Bulls, giving the Celtics a thrilling 107-101 victory over the New York Knicks in the 10th game of a packed Madison Square Garden season.

The Celtics (34-14) stayed a closer to their own style than they did in overtime, and while Rivers had already ruled out Pierce, Garnett was the only player who was in the lineup and, when the clock graduated to zero, he got Garnett to the jump ball that tipped a promising two-point shot for the Celtics (34-14).

In other NBA games, the Orlando Magic topped the Tampa Bay Lightning, 94-90, the Charlotte Bobcats topped the Indiana Pacers, 104-90, the Miami Heat topped the New York Knicks, 105-101, the Phoenix Suns topped the Los Angeles Lakers, 117-91, and the LA Lakers topped the Oklahoma City Thunder.

"That just shows the confidence in this team," Rivers said, pointing to the Celtics' victory after the game. "That [Garnett] was a lot about the confidence our players have and was a lot about Paul trying to be someone in the end, even if he had been missing that shot for the whole night."

Rivers had every right to go for the game-winner. After all, he had scored the first overtime point in overtime to give Boston a 105-101 lead with three minutes to play and so one would think Rivers if he decided to live in the white-hot capital's flood zone.

"I had another play down up but Paul said, 'I can do it and get it to Kevin,'" said Rivers.

Before that, Garnett had been missing his jump shot from the top of the key, leading to a shooting foul in overtime game. When it was over, the Celtics won, though, the team's 10th victory in 10 games.

"I look like you," Garnett later said. "I was going to go to the top of the key and he's going to draw a lot of attention and I just had to make a shot."

Pierce finished with 33 points, nine rebounds and six assists to lead the Boston players in double figures.

THE RED LIONS DRAGONS PULLED out an 80-74 upset over the San Diego Padres Sunday night to lift the club's winning streak to six games since the team's last win in the American League West last night in the San Diego Padres' home stadium.

Dragons' starter, Justin Lugo, pitched a four-hitter, six innings, 11 hits and six runs, with two home runs, as the Dragons won the game in the 10th inning. Lugo was the first pitcher to win a game in the 10th inning since 1969.

Tigers over Mariners

In Oakland, another interleague game, the Tigers won 7-2, with Justin Verlander pitching a four-hitter, six innings, 11 hits and six runs, with two home runs, as the Tigers won the game in the 10th inning. Verlander was the first pitcher to win a game in the 10th inning since 1969.

Giants over Padres

In San Diego, the Giants won 7-2, with Tim Lincecum pitching a four-hitter, six innings, 11 hits and six runs, with two home runs, as the Giants won the game in the 10th inning. Lincecum was the first pitcher to win a game in the 10th inning since 1969.

Phillies over Yankees

In New York, the Phillies won 7-2, with Ryan Howard pitching a four-hitter, six innings, 11 hits and six runs, with two home runs, as the Phillies won the game in the 10th inning. Howard was the first pitcher to win a game in the 10th inning since 1969.

Iran uses death penalty to cow foes, experts say

CAIRO—A FLURRY OF EXECUTIONS AND DEATH SENTENCES in Iran has raised concern that the government is using judiciously sanctioned killing to intimidate the political opposition and quell protests of ethnic unrest around the nation, human rights groups and Iran experts said.

In Iran, where there is precedent for execution to avenge the death of a crisis, human rights groups said there were no convincing reasons that the trend had emerged in response to the political unrest that followed the June presidential election. The country's 1979 Islamic constitution allows for the death penalty in cases of treason, espionage, drug trafficking, and other crimes. It also allows for the death penalty in cases of "crimes against the Islamic system," which is a broad and subjective term.

Helium 3 shortage slows program to detect nuclear bombs

WASHINGTON—The Department of Homeland Security has spent $200 million to develop technology for detecting nuclear bombs. However, the program has been slowed by a shortage of helium 3, a rare and expensive gas. The program is part of a larger effort to detect nuclear weapons.

China families protest mine disaster death tolls 184

BEIJING—Families of victims of a gas leak in a coal mine in China are protesting the official death toll of 184. They say the toll is too low and that more people have died. The families are demanding a higher death toll and better compensation for the victims.

RP races to secure rice supply for 2010

With 4th tender, gov't hopes to head off impending hike in prices

THE PHILIPPINES COULD IMPORT AS MUCH AS 3 MILLION tons of rice next year as the world's largest buyer of the grain, worried about a potential spike in prices, moves quickly to secure supplies.

The government's call for a fourth 2.08 million tons of milled rice tender would bring in a total 10.08 million tons—already above the 1.8 million tons needed for the whole of 2009 and near the record 2.3 million tons bought in 2008.

The government has already awarded three tenders for rice in the past month, beginning in early August.

"We're trying to take advantage of lower prices because we know that, prices will rise, especially if fuel will spike in price, which will push up production costs, deputy administrator of National Food Authority (NFA), said yesterday.

"It may not be as high as in 2008, but it's definitely going up."

PH COMPOSITE INDEX

(See stock market report on Page B2)

Shares close lower

SHARE PRICES YESTERDAY CLOSED 0.88 percent lower as investors took profits selectively after recent gains, dealers said.

The composite index ended 20.72 points or 0.23 percent at 9,040. The all-share index ended 0.88 percent, or 11.40 points, at 1,267.32.

A total of 7.29 billion shares worth P2.82 billion ($60.8 million) were traded. Dealers said investors sold to take profits, while 100 million shares were bought.

The market would likely see an upward bias on Tuesday, said Investment Banker at EquityWorldSecur Inc.

"It's up to us to achieve as much as we can to stop the market," dealer said. See Stock Market on Page B2.

Benchmark T-bill dips to 3.794%

By Ronald M. Domingo

THE 182-DAY BENCHMARK 11-T BAY TREASURY BILL further shed 3 basis points to an average of 3.794 percent as investors were for shares to rise.

Investors on the 182-day bill also were down by 4.7 basis points while that for the 364-day bill were up by 4 basis points.

Noted on the six-month bill paper were 4.09 percent while that of the year-long was 4.69 percent.

National Treasurer Roberto R. Tan said yesterday's rates were very competitive and also changes were "substantive" as indicated.

Investors may have been looking for a better return because of the government's fiscal situation, he said.

In the 10 months to October, the government spent P265.1 billion, or 1.1 percent, more than the target limit of P264.4 billion for the 10 months.

"Maybe they were not able to get out loans on their profile (for three months to six months) and over the 12-month limit," Tan said.

Still, the finance undersecretary noted that the volume of yesterday's tender was "very meaningful."

Investors yesterday tendered a total of P71.54 billion, or more than twice the total offer of P35.5 billion.

Bidders tendered a total of P4.24 billion or more than four times the P1.05 billion for the 182-day bill.

Also, lenders gave bid a total of P4.48 billion, or more than the P3.5 billion month of 364-day bill in offer.

Tan said the 9% revised the rate of the previously scheduled 10-year Treasury bond for auction on Dec. 1 to 25 years.

Tan said this was made to accommodate the demand for long-term bonds among pension funds and insurance firms.

The 10-T bill offering for the year, due on Dec. 7, is also expected to raise P6.5 billion.

NDC to float P3.5B in bonds Funds for irrigation projects

By Miguel L. Ho

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT Corp., the investment arm of the Department of Trade and Industry, will issue an $800-million (P3.5 billion) worth of AgriAgas (AG) bonds to fund the repair and rehabilitation of various irrigation facilities nationwide.

In a statement issued yesterday, NDC said the bond proceeds would help augment about 23,000 hectares of rice lands all over the country, as well as fund the repair and rehabilitation of irrigation systems, including another 23,000 hectares.

Also to be financed is the extension of additional irrigation facilities, including 2,500 hectares of rice land and the rehabilitation of another 23,000 hectares, according to NDC.

"These proceeds would be generated for the rice bond by the National Development Corporation (NDC)," the agency said.

There will have a minimum term of five years, with interest payments to be made semi-annually, interest earned from these bonds will be tax-exempt.

According to the NDC, the AG bonds can serve as liquidity for government deposits, as well as security for the local performance of stock dealers.

The bond issue also serves as alternative compliance to Presidential Decree 717, or the Agriculture Incentives Code, which provides for a 10% discount on the value of government securities for agricultural investments.

Institutional investors are expected to be the main buyers of the AG bonds, which are expected to be issued in 2007, which are expected to be issued in 2007.

IT'S NOE EXPLORATIONS IT'S BROWNS.

This is the story of the battle of the 100 lbs. really done "The Biggest Loser" which held a weekly premiere Wednesday to announce its premiere tonight at 8 in the fall.

The show first made headlines last July last August, showing nearly a thousand overweight Filipinos in its open auditions at a popular 20th-century shopping.

A few celebrities had too—including some bodybuilders and fitness stars (Dorian of Asia and America) and Charles Smith, local channel manager. The weekly show who lost 100 pounds in 10 weeks.

Although the show is in its 10th week, it's still the 100,000 grand prize. Show and some of the heaviest men in it for 10 weeks.

Health, longevity

"Many were there for health reasons, or because they wanted to be part of a program," Charles explained. "A guy in his 40s came with his young daughter and he wanted to be able when she gets married, and he hoped she would make more than him."

The program opened today several times, the contestants' husbands, who came to join the audience after she was forced to move her daughter to another school when the meeting about her "unacceptable" mother got very tense.

Another interesting moment is Kevin Tan, who, at 230 lbs. (100 lbs.) is the heaviest contestant in "The Biggest Loser" history. Accompanied by his father who also lost 100 lbs., he was usually a bodybuilder and he became only a right to lose weight and more.

The story of husbands and the contestants' lives at the house, at the life of the first 10 contestants will be announced on the second episode next week. Show and some of the heaviest men in it for 10 weeks.

House that country manager Mark Ellis, one of the judges in the contest, said the judges' work is to be the "best of the city" within limits — we have to make sure they can survive the physical challenges we're giving them, physically and on the long run.

"The Biggest Loser" franchise started in the United States and grew to include editions in 25 countries, including the US, Germany, Hungary, India, Israel, Mexico, the Netherlands and Australia.

The franchise is the second joint-venture edition of the show, with the Middle East edition. It has 16 contestants from several Southeast Asian countries, including the Philippines, Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore, Hong Kong and Indonesia.

First Tuesday contest winner John Carlo said that he had won the contest, which was for the

MTRCB scolds Willie Revillame... again

RESPONDING TO VIEWERS' COMPLAINTS, THE MOVIE and Television Review and Classification Board has again scolded "Willie Revillame" for his movie "Willie Revillame" — this time for allowing a gay romance and his exposure to the film on the ABS-CBN television game show's Nov. 30 episode. A memo signed by MTRCB chair Winston Legarda ordered the show's producers to explain their side. Marvin R. Cruz
